“ I feel things very deeply and this day has been tough. I found out this morning that a dear childhood friend Tonya York Wright passed in her sleep last night. My heart just aches. When I moved to Mississippi in 1978, Tonya York Wright became my classmate and closest friend in second grade. All the childhood memories I have are just flooding back:

- When we put our bathing suits on and would play in the rain
 - Sleepovers with all the neighborhood girls
 - We all had cabbage patch dolls; you had the real thing- handcrafted dolls, a step up from cabbage patch
 - Watching your sister Tina get dressed for the band on Friday nights.
 - Running up and down Farmington drive, riding our bikes, and making our way to JC swimming pool
 - Watching Cassie Calder make cool-aid out of candy and water in Mrs. Brown's class
 - Band practice and trips as we got older into high school
 - Going to church with me and Marian Pardue
 - Going to the skating rink on Saturday morning, where everyone hung out
 - Crushing on the boy next door
- And they keep coming...

I will miss you, my friend. You are gone too soon. Tears fall knowing I will never see another post or hear your voice again. But I will see you again— in our real home— Heaven.

May God be with your family, friends, Jeff Wright, Tina York Guy, and your pups whom you loved so much.
